Celebrate National Public Gardens Day with Free Admission to Adkins Arboretum

Adkins Arboretum will celebrate the American Public Gardens Association's (APGA) seventh annual National Public Gardens Day by waiving admission fees on Fri., May 6.

Slated to coincide with Mother's Day weekend, the unofficial start of spring, National Public Gardens Day affords public gardens an opportunity to showcase their gardens and highlight the valuable contributions they make to their communities.

On National Public Gardens Day, Arboretum visitors can shop from the region's largest selection of ornamental native plants at the Native Plant Nursery; view an exhibition by artist Marilyn Banner; take a self-guided tour or an audio tour; explore the forest, wetland, meadows and native gardens; and learn about the link between native plants, land conservation and a healthy Chesapeake Bay. Visitors who become members will receive free admission year-round, in addition to a host of other benefits.

Arboretum hours are 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Tuesday through Saturday, and Sunday from noon to 4 p.m. Nursery hours are 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Friday and Saturday, beginning May 6.

Founded in 1940, Delaware-based APGA is devoted to strengthening public gardens throughout North America. Its membership includes more than 500 public gardens in all 50 states, the District of Columbia, Canada and seven other countries.
